Technology Consulting for Financial Services Firms

Get the right IT solution for your firm

Experienced

InfoSystems Integrated (ISI) consultants have provided IT services since 1988. With a wide variety of experience working for financial service organizations of all sizes, ISI can help your firm. We understand the demands of businesses like yours and the systems you rely on from specific work using industry standard software and hardware. We facilitate the changes necessary to continually streamline your technology-driven business.

Responsive

In the financial services business, more so than perhaps any other business, time is money. On a daily basis, we are sensitive to this fact by responding to all client requests in a timely manner. Communication is our top priority.

Efficient

In our capacity as IT experts for many investment firms, we are repeatedly asked to perform similar tasks for multiple clients. These recurring experiences overlap and lead to a better understanding of the options and their corresponding alternatives, results, benefits, and potential pitfalls. Equipped with this information, we enable clients to make better decisions about whether the latest products and upgrades make sense for them now, later or ever.

Flexible

There are a myriad of solutions available to address today's application requirements for financial professionals. The right solution for each application depends on the firm. We establish baseline standards and advise clients strongly when necessary, but we do not push solutions. ISI was founded with the belief that consulting advice should be impartial. As such, we seek out and recommend appropriate solutions on an individual basis.

Knowledgeable

We are familiar with the top service providers for research, compliance, trading, portfolio management, performance, data conversions, and backoffice outsourcing. ISI has specific experience supporting offices like yours with the most widely used software solutions, including Advent, Baseline, Bloomberg, Charles River, Eze Castle, FactSet, Morningstar, and Performance Technologies.

Whether the topic is client reporting, performance, security, compliance, or composites, we speak the language of financial professionals. With ISI on your team, you spend less time explaining and more time doing.
